Trip Summary:

This year, the annual troop snow camping trip was very successful. We had plenty of snow this year because we went in January, as opposed to going late in the year; which we did last year. This year, everyone built a snow cave and slept in it. The only thing that could have improved on this trip was the time at which we ate dinner, but that could not be helped because some of the cooks were running behind on their snow caves.

After we departed from the snow park, we went to a local hill for sledding. While I cannot comment on this because I went home instead of sledding, I am sure that everyone who participated had a lot of fun. In conclusion, this was one of the most successful snow camping trips in recent memory.
