Trip Summary

Camp set up: Saturday a.m.

Weather: Nice, no fog or rain. Moderate Temperatures

Camp was struck at 7:00 a.m. on Sunday

Camping:

We were expecting eight attendees but only six were able to make it. The beach was difficult to reach from our camp site. We were not allowed to get wet so crossing streams was not supposed to be an option. There were two streams between our campsite and the ocean therefore we were forced to ford the streams. The troop members with waterproof boots ferried those without across the streams.

Significant events:

At night we heard pagans, cannibals or Native Americans singing songs and chanting. Then a couple of us, after rock climbing with tent stakes, found a bone at the beach.
